

Dear Reviewer,

Thank you for reviewing this volume.

The Southern Baptist Journal of Theology aims to be a valued resource for pastors, scholars, students, and church members seeking better understanding of the task and nature of theology and ministry in our world. Book reviews introduce readers to recent literature in the various fields of academic theology and practical ministry, and guide them in careful analysis and reflection.

Your book review should identify the book's thesis and explain how the book develops it, providing a general acquaintance with the volume. You generally will want to include a clause or sentence identifying the author of the work. You should also provide some explanation regarding how the book and its argument relate to the literature of the discipline. You should evaluate the book's strengths and weaknesses, but emphasize only those matters that are truly significant for the discipline or have current relevance. Evaluation may include such matters as the book's value, effectiveness, accuracy, orthodoxy, and presuppositions.

Reviews will usually run from 800 to 1200 words. Some works however merit fewer words, and others, due to the significance of the author, the argument, or the issue, merit lengthier treatment.

When you submit your review, please be sure to include the following information at the top: title (in italics), series title (if applicable), author's name as it appears on the title page, publication data, number of pages, publisher's price of the book, and an indication of whether the book is "paper" if it is a paperback volume. Here are two examples:

The Divine Authenticity of Scripture: Retrieving an Evangelical Heritage. By A. T. B. McGowan. Downers Grove, IL: InterVarsity Press, 2007, 229 pp., $22.00 paper.

Christ and the Decree: Christology and Predestination in Reformed Theology from Calvin to Perkins. By Richard A. Muller. Grand Rapids, MI: Baker, 2008, xiv + 240 pp., $29.99 paper.

Place your name at the bottom of the review. Please also include where you are currently serving (i.e., Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Trinity Evangelical Divinity School, etc.) and your title or position there.

Please submit your review in Microsoft Word format to Jarvis J. Williams at jwilliams@sbts.edu within two months of receiving your copy of the book. Thank you for participating in the ministry of the Southern Baptist Journal of Theology.

Jarvis J. Williams, Ph.D.
Associate Professor of New Interpretation &
Book Review Editor